THE SPIRIT OF CAMP DAVID

You may recall President Eisenhower's stand that no summit conference would be held without progress on a lower level to indicate that something would be accomplished by such a meeting of the heads of state.

The following events happened in 1959:

February 5 - Khrushchev, in a speech, denounced U. S. leaders and foreign policy and in the same speech invited the President to visit the Soviet Union.

February 6 - White House statement, "The President has no plans to make such a visit. In fact, he has received no invitation except through the report of an offhand invitation extended in a political speech.

March 18 - Prime Minister MacMillan talked to the President in Washington. The British report of the talks said that it had been agreed that summit talks with the Soviet Premier Khrushchev were necessary regardless of the outcome of the preliminary foreign minister's conference, expected to open in May. On the same talk, U. S. spokesmen insisted that the President stuck to his view that the holding of a summit conference depended on the outcome of the foreign ministers' talks.

March 24 - MacMillan predicted success in the "tough task" of negotiating with the Soviet leaders.

March 25 - President Eisenhower said that the West would not be bluffed or blackmailed into a summit meeting; he said such a meeting would be held only if the heads of government had grounds for believing it fruitful.

March 26 - Big 3 formally invited the Soviets to join in a foreign ministers' conference. They accepted on March 30th.

May 1 - The Soviet May Day parade in Moscow featured a display of military might. Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky opened the observance by declaring that the Soviet armed forces were "ready at any instant to render a crushing rebuff to any aggressor". He accused the "Western imperialist powers of striving in all and every way to counter the peaceful initiative of the Soviet government", and he added: "There are no forces in the world that can defeat the Soviet camp".

May 11 - Foreign Ministers of the Big 4 open negotiations.

May 14 - Herter presented the Western "package plan" - free German elections.

May 16 - Gromyko presented the Soviet plan.

May 18 - Herter and Gromyko reject each others' proposals.

April 5 - President Eisenhower announced that he and Premier Khrushchev would exchange visits in the fall.

April 5 - In Moscow, Khrushchev said, "I am prepared to turn out my pockets to show that I am harmless. In the old days, people used to leave their weapons in the hall when they went in to talk peace. We should do that now and August 5 - Foreign ministers failed to agree on all major issues. Conference recessed indefinitely.

September 15 - Khrushchev begins a 13-day tour of the United States.
September 27 - The President and Khrushchev issued a joint statement saying that they had agreed that general disarmament was the most important question facing the world; that negotiations on Berlin would be reopened with a view to achieving a solution which would be in accordance with the views of all concerned and in the interest of the maintenance of peace. Also, President Eisenhower's visit to the Soviet Union would take place in the Spring of 1960.
September 28 - At a press conference, the President said that Khrushchev had removed any threat to a negotiated Berlin settlement and had removed many of the President's objections to a summit meeting.

All of these events are on record. What is your conclusion? What is the significance of this remarkable about face? To pressure, we give inch, by foot, by yard, by mile. Is this celebrated Spirit of Camp David a Ghost of Christmas past? The question is, who is this spirit going to haunt?
